

Spectroscopy of Heavy Quark Hadrons

Tuesday, October 29, 2013 3:00 PM (30 minutes)

Recent developments of heavy hadron spectroscopy have revealed existence of new types of hadrons, which are not simply accounted as $q\bar{q}$ or qqq . I focus on a few topics of heavy hadron spectroscopy, i.e., heavy baryon spectroscopy and its significance in QCD, and heavy quark exotic hadrons.

Primary author: Dr OKA, Makoto (Tokyo Institute of Technology)

Presenter: Dr OKA, Makoto (Tokyo Institute of Technology)

Track Classification: Plenary